

MCBC 2nd Annual SPORTING CLAYS SHOOT

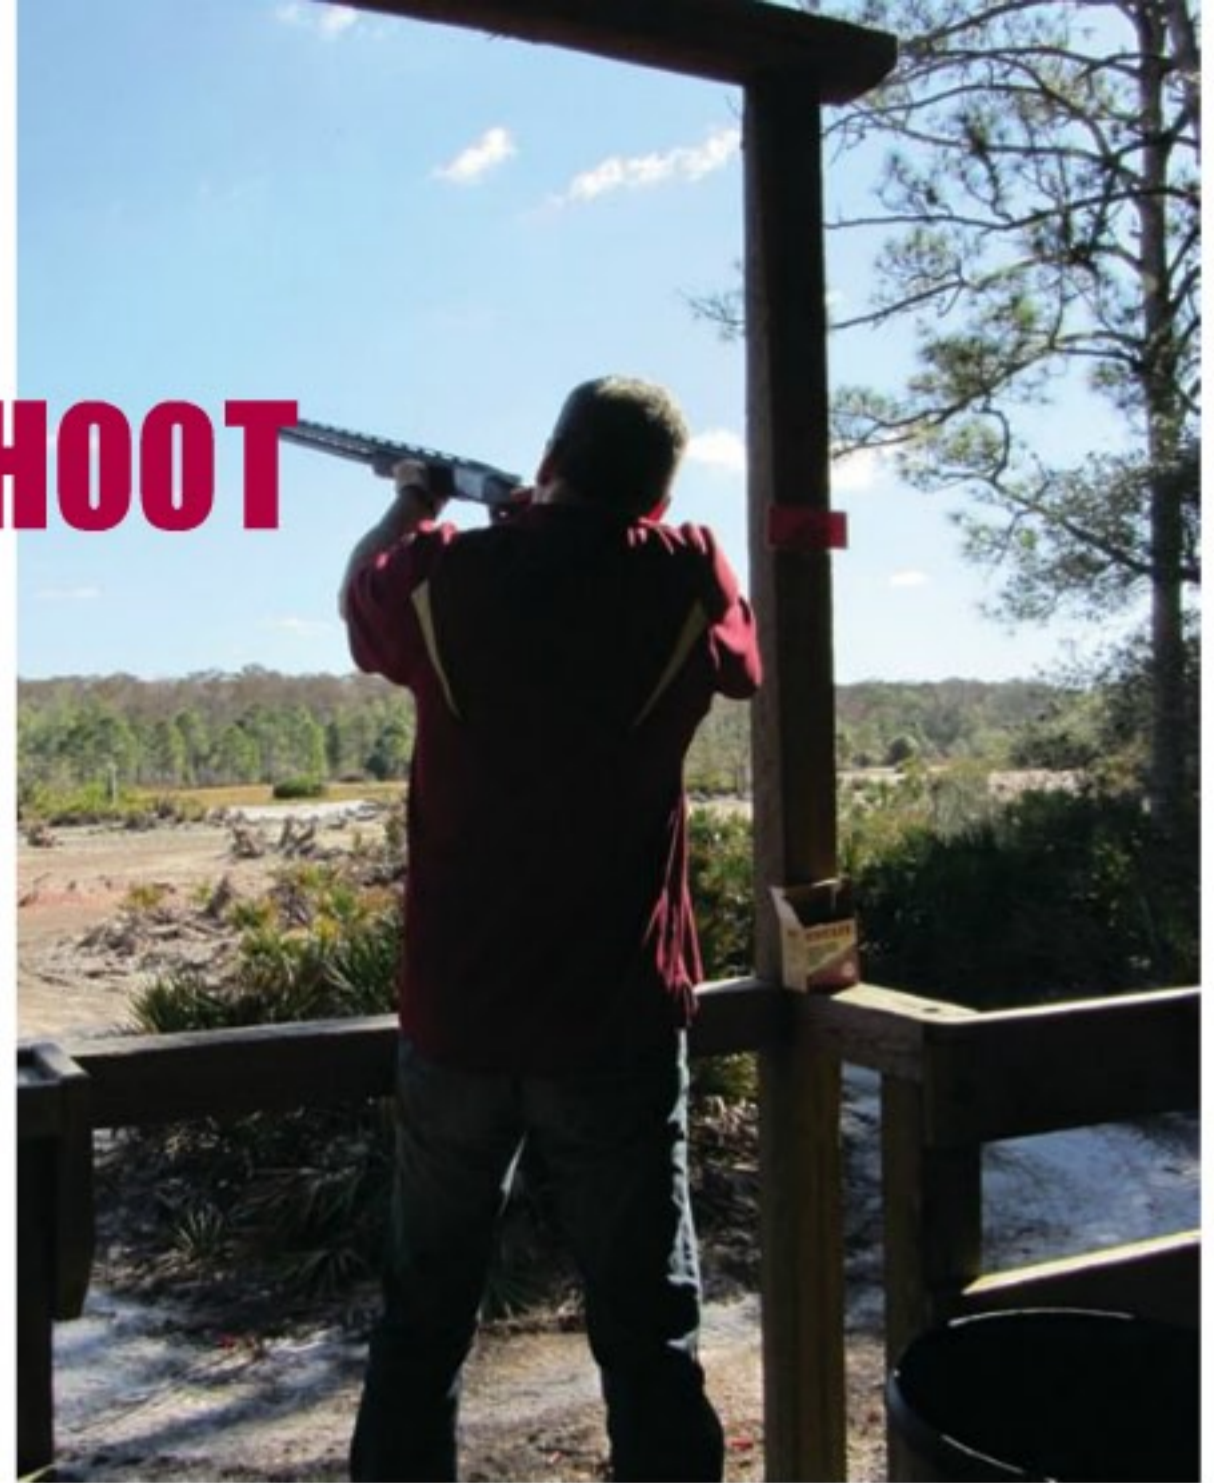

The weather could not have been better for the 2nd Annual Sporting Clays Shoot that was held once again this year at the lush Quail Creek Plantation in Okeechobee, Florida. Set amid 3,000 acres of stately oak hammocks and pine forests, Quail Creek Plantation opened in 2002 as the region's ultimate multi-disciplinary shotgunning complex offering a 5-stand practice range, two 14-station sporting clay courses covering some 40 shooting positions and seasonal hunts for quail, turkey and pheasant.

After a continental breakfast provided by Publix Supermarket, Victor Farina, President of the MCBC, welcomed all of the shooters and sponsors to the tournament. Once the required safety talk from Quail Creek ended, both experienced and novice shooters alike were ready to try their hand at one of the 14 station courses. With over 90 shooters taking aim you can just imagine the excitement of the participants.

After everyone had finished shooting and lunch had been served, prizes were awarded for the day's event as well as the raffles available. The first place trophies for highest scoring team went to Derrick Koger, President of Derrick Builders, Terry Knight with Tile by Knight, Mark Ingersoll with 84 Lumber and Travis Smoak with Electronic Systems Design. A lowest score prize of clay shoot key rings were awarded to Jennifer Burnside with Phil Kean Designs, Rick Cuevas with Pella Windows and Doors, Mark Goehring with Goehring & Morgan and Chuck Creel with TotalCare of Orlando. Two new prizes were given this year as well. The first, for highest scoring men's shooter, which went to Mark Ingersoll who scored an astounding 93 out of 100! The second award was for highest scoring lady's shooter, which went to Amy Thrasher with Phil Kean Designs who scored an impressive 28 out of 100. Green Bird 50/50 cash prize in the amount of $250.00 was awarded to Travis McGee from Southeast Elevator and as luck would have it Travis' father Scott won the door prize for the day, a Weber Tailgating Grill. The first of two guns raffled off was the Benelli Stoeger STF

3000 over/under 12 gauge, which went to Bob Vandebergh with Thomas Lumber Company. The second gun, a Savage Axis HD Camo Centerfire 270 with scope, was won by William Irwin with Terry Irwin Architects. The MCBC would like to take this opportunity to congratulate all of the winners and thank everyone for their participation in the event. As a not for profit organization, the MCBC depends on funds raised through special events like this one to help benefit the Master Custom Builder Council and several charities throughout the year.
